

Official Rules for Daily Fantasy NFL Contests

Lineups

Multi-game contests: All entrants must draft athletes for their lineups from at least three (3) different real-world teams. Additionally, no entrant may have more than six (6) players from the same real-world team in a lineup.

Single-game contests: All entrants must draft at least one athlete to their lineups from both real-world teams, excluding a team DEF. Specifically, if the one athlete selected from a real-world team is a DEF, the entrant must draft one more selection from that real-world team. No entrant may have a roster consisting entirely of players from the same real-world team.

Deadlines

Contests may no longer be entered once the scheduled game time of the first game from which athletes can be selected for teams in that contest has passed (e.g. entries for a contest will close at 10:00 AM PT if the first game in that contest has a scheduled game time of 10:00 AM PT).

Lineup edits are permitted for any athlete in your lineup before that particular athlete's scheduled game time, but only if that athlete is being swapped for another athlete whose scheduled game time has also not yet passed.

Note: For the Yahoo Cup, you can join a weekly contest after it starts. You are eligible to fill out a lineup with players whose games have not started as long as there are two or more games remaining in the series.

Canceling Entries

Entrants may cancel entries under certain conditions by clicking on the "Edit Entry" button under the "My Contest" section of the site, then clicking on the "Cancel contest entry" link at the bottom of the Lineup page.

Entrants may cancel an entry for any non-head-to-head (H2H) contest that is unfilled before the contest starts, or for any filled non-H2H contest up to 15 minutes of contest start.

No entries may be canceled for matched H2H contests.

Postponements & Cancellations

For NFL contests, if any scheduled game is postponed or canceled, no points will be awarded to athletes in the contest who are participating in the postponed or canceled game unless the game is delayed and played on the same day as originally scheduled for the contest.

Any game that is played the following day or any time after will result in no points being awarded to athletes in the contest.

Suspensions

A game will be considered suspended if play has begun, but will resume at a later date.

For NFL contests, if any scheduled game is suspended within the contest period, any statistics accumulated within the contest period and up to the point of suspension will be included in the contest.

Any game that resumes play following a suspension any time after will result in no additional points being awarded to athletes in the contest unless the game is postponed and played no later than Wednesday of that week.

Position Eligibility

For all sports and contests, Yahoo will determine position eligibility for any athlete at its sole discretion.

Traded Athletes

When an athlete is traded to another team after a contest has been created that contains that athlete, the treatment will vary depending on the situation.

If players from an athlete's previous team and new team are both eligible for selection in every contest that given week, points will be awarded to that athlete in the contest if he plays for his new team.

However, if players from an athlete's previous team are eligible for selection in any contest that week, but players from his new team are not, no points will be awarded to that athlete in the contest.

Similarly, if players from an athlete's previous team are not eligible for selection in any contest that week, but players from his new team are, no points will be awarded to that athlete in the contest.

Scoring Revisions & Corrections

Final box scores sent by our data provider at the conclusion of the slate's games will be the basis for calculating all scoring and results of each contest. Please note that live scoring and any accumulated statistics during a contest may ultimately differ from the final box score.

On occasion, box scores may be revised and resent by our data provider after the final box scores have already been released. Should this occur, contest scoring and results will not be revised.

A correction will be treated differently from a scoring revision. There are instances where a correction must be made, even after contests and payments have settled, due to various technical issues that may have affected contest scoring and results, or the settlement process itself.

Yahoo will determine, at its sole discretion, whether any corrections need to be made including whether settlements will be adjusted due to the corrections.

Contest Settlement & Payments

We will attempt to settle contests as quickly as possible, but this process may take longer depending on when the final box score is received.

Once a contest has settled, prizes will be distributed to the winners shortly after, typically within a week.

Prizes

All prizes offered are established and made known to contest entrants in advance of each contest and are listed on each respective contest page.

In the event of a tie, the following tiebreakers will be used:

- 1st tiebreaker: team with most total touchdowns
- 2nd tiebreaker: team with most rushing yards
- 3rd tiebreaker: team with most receiving yards
- 4th tiebreaker: team with most passing yards

If a tie remains after the 4th tiebreaker, there will be a tiebreaker playoff contest between the tied Players to determine the winner of the prize. All specifics of the tiebreaker playoff contest will be solely determined by Boys & Girls Club.

Additional Terms and Conditions

Each contest is governed by Yahoo Sports Paid Fantasy Terms of Service. For additional terms and rules, including rules regarding eligibility for each contest, please see the Terms of Service.